

Support your local hospice by donating to their charity shops

Do you have good quality items that you no longer want or need that you could donate to St Clare Hospice?

The Hospice relies on regular donations of pre-loved goods to re-stock its charity shops. Please pop along to your local charity shop with anything that you no longer need. From clothes and toys, to furniture and furnishings - St Clare Hospice will turn your preloved items into vital funding for its services.

St Clare Hospice's books and records charity shop, in Bishop's Stortford, is always in need of good quality popular music vinyl records. If you have any old records in your loft or garage you no longer listen to, or want, please give them to St Clare Hospice. The Hospice will turn your old tunes into hours of care and support for local people.

If you have anything that could be particularly valuable or collectible that you no longer want please donate it to St Clare Hospice. The Hospice will sell it on their eBay site to raise the most it can for it. You can donate items to the Hospice's ebay site at your local St Clare charity shop, or by sending them directly to the Hospice.

For more information about how to donate items to St Clare Hospice's charity shops, visit: <http://stclarehospice.org.uk/how-you-can-help-us/shop-with-us/donate-to-our-shops/>